Description: This course will immerse students in addition and subtraction facts through games, riddles, interactive activities, books, crafts, and review worksheets. There are no grades or pressure to test, so students are sure to have a good time looking at addition and subtraction from a new perspective. There will be a variety of manipulatives used in this course to help target different learning styles, including counters, dominoes, and candy! This popular class is ideal for students who are still learning their addition and subtraction facts as well as for students who would benefit from a review before the new 2015 – 2016 year. Hope to see you there!
